Join your fellow students and emerging professionals in landscape architecture to celebrate the art of Andy Goldsworthy - British sculptor, photographer, and environmentalist known for creating site-specific sculpture and 'land art' situated in natural and urban settings. His art involves the use of natural and found objects, to create both temporary and permanent sculptures which draw out the character of their environment.

After viewing the documentary film, we will follow-up in March with a brainstorming session to design and install a temporary piece of land art ourselves!
